Introduction

Our special guest today is the CEO of a high profile national business development firm based in beautiful Bendigo, Victoria.

She commenced her business career at the age of 10 in primary school with a profitable trading business that bought and sold paddle pop sticks with kids in the playground at lunchtime.

At the age of 29, she founded her own group of companies and started a business consulting, coaching and training firm called Direct Incite.

Her company has worked with over 600 hundred growing businesses and their staff on an international basis.

She has published her first book, The Art of Networking (hold up book). This book has sold over 5000 copies and is almost out of print. We are lucky to have a few copies here today.

Now get ready for her energy and enthusiasm, as she will make you think, generate ideas and call you into action to get RESULTS. So please get ready for Jen Harwood.
